Market Square Arena

Market Square Arena, built by the city of Indianapolis and completed in 1974, is one of the premier sports and entertainment showplaces in the midwest.

The building was designed by Kennedy, Brown and Associates and constructed by Huber, Hunt and Nichols, Inc. Ground breaking ceremonies were held Oct. 20, 1971, and Sept. 15, 1974, the building was officially opened. The Pacers fell to San Antonio, 129-121, in double overtime in their first appearance in the building on Oct. 18, 1974.

Five nights later, Oct. 23, 1974, saw Indiana take its first victory in its "new" home as the Pacers dumped the Spirits of St. Louis, 122-107.

Market Square Arena highlights include the 1980 NCAA basketball semifinals and finals; the 1978 and 1979 NCAA basketball Mid-East Regionals; NBA's All-Star Saturday in 1985; the annual Indiana state high school basketball and wrestling championships; Elvis Presley's last concert on June 26, 1977; 1982 National Sports Festival; and 1987 Pan American Games basketball competition.

Site of countless sports and spectator events including circuses, rodeos, ice shows, major concerts, tennis and hockey, MSA has a seating capacity for concerts of 18,250; the same for boxing; 16,912 for basketball and 16,000 for hockey. All seats in the circular arena are free from posts and other obstructions of view. Prior to the 1984-85 NBA season, MSA underwent major reconstruction to include the most modern in handicap provisions and in 1988 a new animated color scoreboard and video replay screens were added.

The finest in dining is provided at Market Square Gardens restaurant, located on the seventh level on the west side of the building.

Donnie Walsh

President

Since Donnie Walsh was named general manager of the Indiana Pacers in April, 1986, it has been a steady stream of activity for the Pacers on and off the court. And every indicator points toward continued improvement in every aspect of the Pacers' organization with sights set for the goal of building a world championship team.

Last year Walsh was named president of the Indiana Pacers Basketball Corp., which not only runs the Pacers, but directs the management of Market Square Arena.

Walsh, an assistant coach for the Pacers for two years before being named G.M., got into coaching following a highly successful basketball playing career at the University of North Carolina. He played three years (1958-61) under Frank McGuire (who guided the Tar Heels to the 1957 NCAA title) and his senior season for then first-year head coach Dean Smith.

Upon graduating from UNC, Walsh attended the North Carolina Law School where he was the associate editor of the Law Review. He had opportunities to join then former Vice President Richard Nixon's New York law firm and the U.S. Justice Department's Honors Program, but he turned them down to take a graduate assistant coaching position under Smith at North Carolina.

A year later, Walsh joined McGuire at the University of South Carolina as associate head coach. He spent 12 years there before deciding to enter law. He passed the Bar Exam in 1977 and was about to enter private practice when Denver Nuggets coach Larry Brown, Walsh's running mate at guard at UNC, convinced him to join the Nuggets' staff. After serving as an assistant coach for a year and a half, he was suddenly thrust into the head coaching spot following Brown's resignation in February, 1979. He guided the Nuggets to a 19-10 record in the final two months of that season and wound up with a 60-82 record in two years as head coach.

Following his stay with Denver, Walsh entered private business. He joined the Pacers as an assistant coach to George Irvine after Irvine was named head coach in the summer of 1984.

Among Walsh's accomplishments as president and GM are: the selection of Chuck Person at the No. 4 position in the draft (Person went on to be named NBA Rookie of the Year), the top two seasons in home attendance in franchise history and the No. 2 and No. 3 seasons on the club's all-time NBA win list.

Walsh is a native of New York City. He and his wife, Judy, have five children and live in Indianapolis.

George Irvine

Vice President
Basketball Operations

As Vice President of Basketball Operations, George Irvine oversees the administrative side of the team, from budgets to scouting. He specializes in the scouting of college players as potential draft picks, current NBA players and anybody else who can play the game, from the CBA to Europe to AAU leagues.

Irvine has been the Pacers' head coach on two occasions (1984-86 and on an interim basis for part of 1988-89), compiling a record of 54-130. He joined the Pacers' organization in 1980 and spent three seasons as an assistant coach to Jack McKinney. In 1983 he became responsible for the Pacer draft efforts as the vice-president/director of basketball operations.

A native of Seattle, Irvine is a 1970 graduate of the University of Washington. A third-round draft pick of the Virginia Squires in 1970, Irvine played five seasons as a guard/forward for the American Basketball Association club.

He spent three seasons (1977-80) as a Nuggets assistant coach under Larry Brown and current Pacer President Donnie Walsh.

George and his wife, Joan, have two sons and live in Carmel.

Greg Jamison

Vice President
Business Operations

Overseeing the business side of the Pacers' front office for the third year is Greg Jamison. He is responsible for the seven departments that run the day to day activities of the club.

Prior to joining the Pacers, Jamison spent seven years with the Dallas Mavericks as director of marketing and advertising. He was instrumental in propelling the Mavericks from an expansion team to one of the most respected front offices in the NBA.

Before joining the Mavericks, Jamison worked for two years as the marketing director of Athletes-In-Action and five years in education and education administration.

A native of Idaho, he received his bachelor's degree from Northwest Nazarene College and a master's from Colorado State University.

He and his wife, Vicki, have two children and live in Carmel.

Hazen's various stops in the radio-TV business have taken him to WXLW and WNDE in Indianapolis, WCSI in Columbus, Ind., WISN in Milwaukee where he was the play-by-play announcer for Marquette basketball in their glory years of the mid-'70s, KTRH in Houston where he did Houston Rockets' telecasts, WFAA in Dallas, KMOX in St. Louis and WIND in Chicago.

Bob Leonard
TV Analyst

Bob "Slick" Leonard brings a varied basketball knowledge and an extensive background of the Pacers' franchise to every Pacer telecast.

He was head coach of the Pacers for 11 years, winning 529 games and three ABA championships. He was general manager of the Pacers from 1976-80. He was a member of the Indiana University 1953 NCAA championship team. And he played for seven years in the NBA for the Lakers and Chicago, finishing among the league leaders in assists.

Leonard, a native of Terre Haute, Ind., lives in Carmel and is an investment counselor.

Clark Kellogg
TV Analyst

Clark Kellogg, a familiar name in the Pacers' record book, is now a familiar name on Pacer broadcasts. In his third season, Kellogg will be an analyst on Prime Sports Network's cablecasts.

He was a first-round draft pick of the Pacers in 1982 and played for five seasons before chronic knee injuries forced him to retire. He averaged 18.9 points and 9.6 rebounds per game in his NBA career.

A native of Cleveland, Ohio, Kellogg attended Ohio State University where he was the MVP in the Big Ten Conference in 1982. He is very active in many Indianapolis-area charities and civic organizations, most notably the Special Olympics.

During his four years in school, he was a sports reporter and then moved to an anchor position after his graduation from Butler in 1983. He also has extensive experience covering auto racing for both ESPN and ABC Sports.

A bachelor, Hammons enjoys playing basketball almost as much as he does covering the sport.

Coaches

Dick Versace

Head Coach

He graduated in 1964 from the University of Wisconsin with a degree in American Literature.

He lists Ernest Hemingway as the most influential person in his life because "he opened up the contemplative side of me which I never knew existed."

His mother, Tere, wrote "The Flying Nun."

His favorite hobby is reading.

He has a larger vocabulary than the articulate sports announcer Howard Cosell.

No, he is not your son's English teacher. He is Dick Versace, the head coach of the Indiana Pacers.

Versace was the assistant coach for the Detroit Pistons under Chuck Daly for two and a half years before being hired by the Pacers on Jan. 5, 1989.

He compiled a record of 22-31 with Indiana, including a 17-15 record in the final 32 games.

Versace is a definite motivator. The most notable example was his coaching stint at Bradley University where he posted a 156-88 record in eight seasons with the Braves. When he first arrived in Peoria, Ill., in 1978, Versace faced a team that had finished last in the Missouri Valley Conference the year before. Two years later the Braves won the Conference championship and a berth into the NCAA tournament. He was named the MVC and District V Coach of the Year for his performance and finished second nationally for both the UPI and National Association of Basketball Coaches awards that same year.

Versace's Bradley teams reached the post-season on four occasions – 1980 NCAA, 1982 NIT, 1985 NIT and 1986 NCAA. After a 32-3 record in 1985-86 and a third Conference championship, the United States Basketball Writers Association named him the national college coach of the year. In fact, throughout his entire head coaching career, through high school and college, he has compiled a 370-147 (.716) record with only one losing season, that being his first year at Bradley.

He started coaching basketball in 1965 for St. Joseph's High School in Wisconsin where he posted a 64-29 record over a four-year span. He moved to Gordon Tech High School in Chicago where he won 102 of 119 games in four seasons. He was named Chicago's High School Coach of the Year in 1971 and 1972 for his help in leading the school to three North Section Championships, back-to-back Catholic League Championships and the Chicago City Championship in 1972.

After serving as an assistant coach at Michigan State and St. Louis University, he coached at Jackson (Mich.) Community College. In two seasons, he posted a record of 47-13.

Versace was born April 16, 1940, in Ft. Bragg, N.C. Because his father, Humbert, had a military career, Versace never lived in one place for more than four years. He lived in London, Paris, Frankfurt, New York and Chicago, to name a few locations.

He is not a stereo-typical coach. Unlike most coaches who carry the clipboard and don't look beyond the X's and O's, and the coaches who think good literature is the Sunday sports page, Versace finds solitude in other areas besides basketball.

He loves reading, going to the movies, plays, art and the theatre. But even with all of the interests outside the basketball realm, his No. 1 passion is coaching basketball.

He is self-reliant and always has known he wanted to coach basketball and always has known he would be an NBA coach some day, even though as a youth, he wasn't very athletic. In fact he played football better than any other sport and actually was on the boxing team at Wisconsin his freshman year. Even his first job in coaching was football, at Forrest-Strawn-Wing High School in Illinois.

"I believe there are very few people in the world who believe in themselves as much as I do," Versace said.

His confidence is backed by his reputable career coaching record.

His coaching ways are sometimes subtle, but always educational. He feels the common denominator of every good team is that it builds some kind of bond through togetherness.

"I honestly believe that nothing of consequence ever happens if you don't believe that it can happen," he said. "I won't accept losing with this team or any team I coach."

He turned around the Bradley program when it needed it in just a few seasons. Pacers fans have the same hope that Versace can do it for them, too.

Bob Hill

Assistant Coach

Bob Hill, the former head coach of the New York Knicks, has returned to the NBA from Europe as a Pacer assistant.

Hill, 40, replaced Hubie Brown as head coach of the Knicks 16 games into the 1986-87 season. In 66 games, Hill won 26 and lost 40.

Last season, Hill was the head coach of Virtus Knorr in Bologna, Italy. His team won the Cup of Italy and finished in the Final Four of the Italian League championship.

In 1987-88 Hill was a scout for the NBA's Charlotte Hornets, as well as a TV analyst for the New Jersey Nets.

After graduating from Bowling Green State University, Hill played minor league baseball in the San Diego Padres organization. He got his first coaching job as an assistant at Bowling Green in 1971. He moved to the University of Pittsburgh as an assistant coach in 1975 and then on to the University of Kansas in 1977 as an assistant to Ted Owens and later to Larry Brown, current coach of the San Antonio Spurs.

After eight years at Kansas, Hill became an assistant coach with the Knicks under Hubie Brown. After a year and 16 games, he was named head coach.

Hill, a native of Columbus, O., is married and has three children.

Bob Ociepka

Assistant Coach

Bob Ociepka's first job in coaching was with Dick Versace 20 years ago. The pair reunited with the naming of Ociepka (oh-SEEP-ka) as a Pacers' assistant coach last January.

Ociepka was hired at Gordon Tech High School in Chicago in 1970 as an assistant coach to Versace. Three years later, Versace was moving on, but Ociepka stayed at Gordon Tech for 15 years. He was head coach there for the final six seasons, compiling a record of 138-37. He was the head coach at York High School in the Chicago area for the past three and a half years.

A native of Chicago, Ociepka graduated from Quincy (Ill.) College in 1970 where he played on the basketball team. He also spent two years as a part-time scout and summer league coach for the Detroit Pistons.

He is married and has one child.

NBA Terminology

Active List

The maximum number of active players is 12; the minimum is 11. At no time shall a team be permitted to dress fewer than eight players for a regular season game or nine for a playoff game. During the off-season and training camp, teams may carry no more than 20 active players.

Injured List

When a player on the Playing Roster is unable, due to injury or illness, to perform his duties, his name may be transferred from the Active List to the Injured List. Any player placed on the Injured List, who is replaced on his team's Active List, must sit out at least five of his team's regular season games before he may be restored to the Active List. No more than three players may be on a team's Injured List at any one time.

Ten-Day Contract

On or after the 55th day following the first game, a team may sign a player to a 10-day contract. This procedure may be used only to replace a player assigned to the Injured List. No player may be signed to more than two 10-day contracts with the same team.

Trading Deadline

No trades are permitted after 9 p.m. (EST) on the 16th Thursday of the regular season (that's Feb. 22 this season). From that point until the end of the regular season, player additions must be made through the waiver procedure or by signing free agents.

Waivers

From August 15 to the end of the regular season, clubs may claim waived players within 48 hours after notice. Players waived at any other time, may be claimed within 10 days. If no team claims the waived player, he becomes a free agent. If more than one team claims a waived player, the one with the lesser record at that time claims the player. The cost for a waived player is $1,000, payable to the League.

Guaranteed Contracts

On the 56th day of the regular season, all player contracts become guaranteed for the remainder of the season.

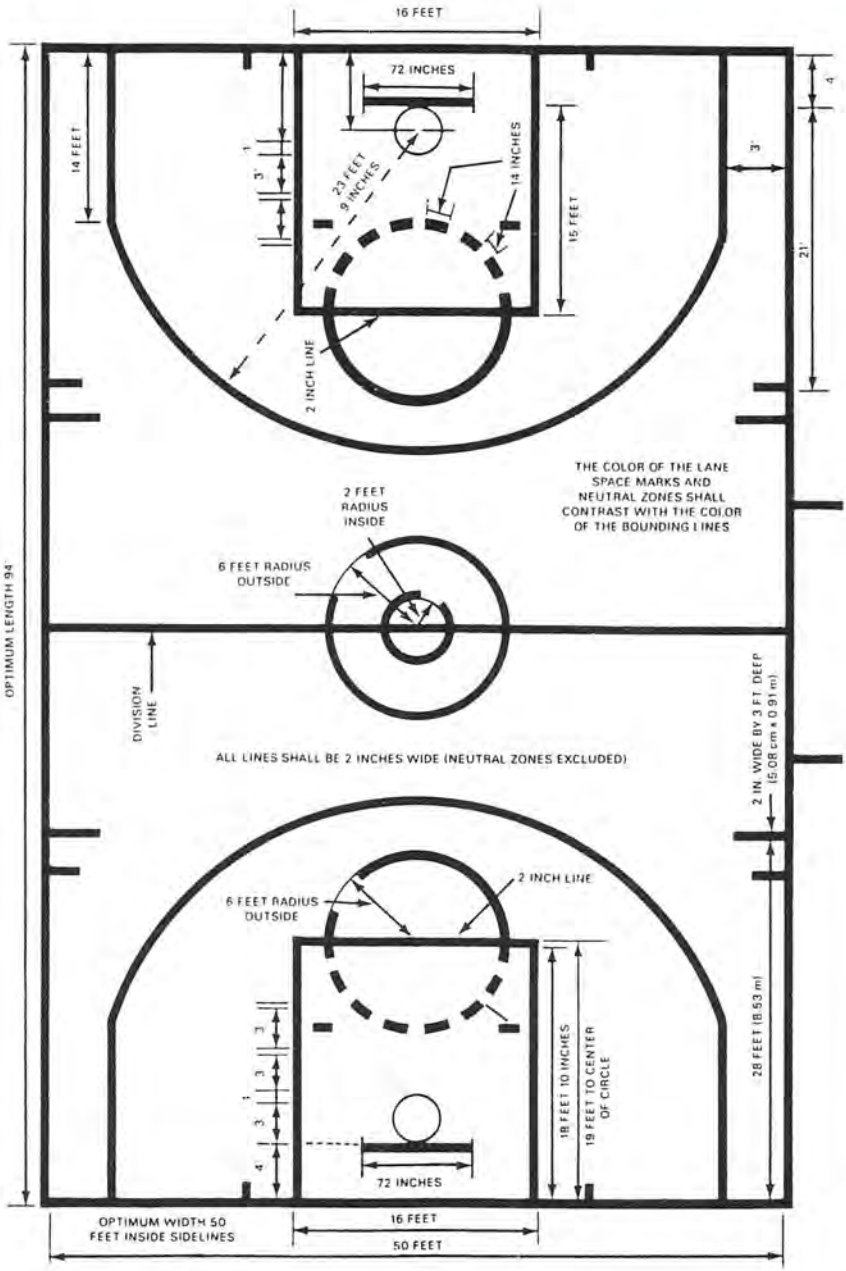
Renunciation of Amateur Eligibility

A person whose high school class has graduated and is at least 17 years old shall become eligible for the College Draft if he renounces his intercollegiate basketball eligibility by written notice to the NBA at least 45 days prior to the draft. Prior to 45 days before the draft, teams may not make direct or indirect contact with players who have eligibility remaining. Teams may contact players without remaining eligibility, but may not discuss compensation.

Salary Cap

The salary cap for the 1989-90 season is $9,802,000 per team. Charlotte and Miami are limited to $7,352,000; Minnesota and Orlando $6,528,000. In order to ensure that the NBA players receive at least 53 percent of the league's revenues, teams will be required to spend a minimum of $7,935,000 (not counting Charlotte, Miami, Minnesota and Orlando) on player salaries.

NBA Court Dimensions



NBA Playoff Structure

The following is the NBA playoff format and tie-breaking procedure for the 1989-90 NBA season:

1. Sixteen teams shall qualify for the playoffs. There shall be eight teams from each conference, consisting of the two division champions and the six other teams in each conference with the best winning percentage during the regular season.

2. The first round of the playoffs shall be a best-of-five series with all succeeding rounds, including the NBA World Championship Series, being best-of-seven.

Following are the playoff pairings:

Note: Team 1 in each conference is the division winner with the better record. Team 2 is the other division winner and Teams 3-8 are ranked according to their regular-season winning percentage.

Playoff Tie-Breaking Procedure

In order to break a two-team tie for playoff positions, the following criteria will be used:

a) Results of games against each other
b) Better winning percentage within own conference
c) Better winning percentage within own division (only if tied teams are in same division)
d) Better winning percentage against playoff opponents in own conference
e) Point differential in games against each other
f) Better point differential between offense and defense

A multiple-team tie will be broken in the following manner:

a) Best cumulative winning percentage in total games involving all teams tied
b) Best winning percentage within own conference
c) Best winning percentage within own division (only if tied teams are in same division)
d) Best winning percentage against playoff opponents in own conference
e) Best point differential between offense and defense

If a multiple-team tie is reduced to a two-team tie at any point using the above criteria, the two-team tie will be resolved in accordance with the existing two-team tie-breaking procedure.

Pacers' Long Shot Artists

The Indiana Pacers have a knack for hitting long shots. And we do mean l-o-n-g!

It was Jerry Harkness who on Nov. 13, 1967, in Dallas hit an 88-foot shot, the longest in the history of professional basketball.

Then, on Jan. 8, 1986, in Market Square Arena, Herb Williams connected on an 81-footer, the second longest field goal in NBA history.

Harkness, who played just 81 games in the ABA, had reported in for an injured Freddie Lewis just moments before taking an inbounds pass with two seconds to go. The Pacers trailed Dallas by two points.

"I was near the baseline and the sideline and I just heaved the ball with all I had, the length of the court," Harkness recalled. "The buzzer went off, and then it hit the backboard and went right in the basket. Everyone was stunned. The fans stopped screaming and we all thought the game was going into overtime. It must have been five seconds before we realized that the basket was a three-point goal and that we had won."

Williams got his shot just before halftime against Sacramento. He grabbed a rebound in the paint, spun around and flung a one-hander the length of the court. Chicago's Norm Van Lier is credited with hitting the longest shot in the NBA—84 feet. It came on Jan. 19, 1977 at San Antonio.

How The Pacers Were Named

On Mar. 5, 1967, a group of Indianapolis businessmen purchased a franchise in the newly formed American Basketball Association. Indiana Professional Sports, Inc. was formed to own and operate the new franchise and on June 8, 1967, the team was named "Indiana Pacers" by General Manager Mike Storen.

The name was chosen because it would be a team for the entire state of Indiana and the organization intended to "set the pace" in professional basketball.
